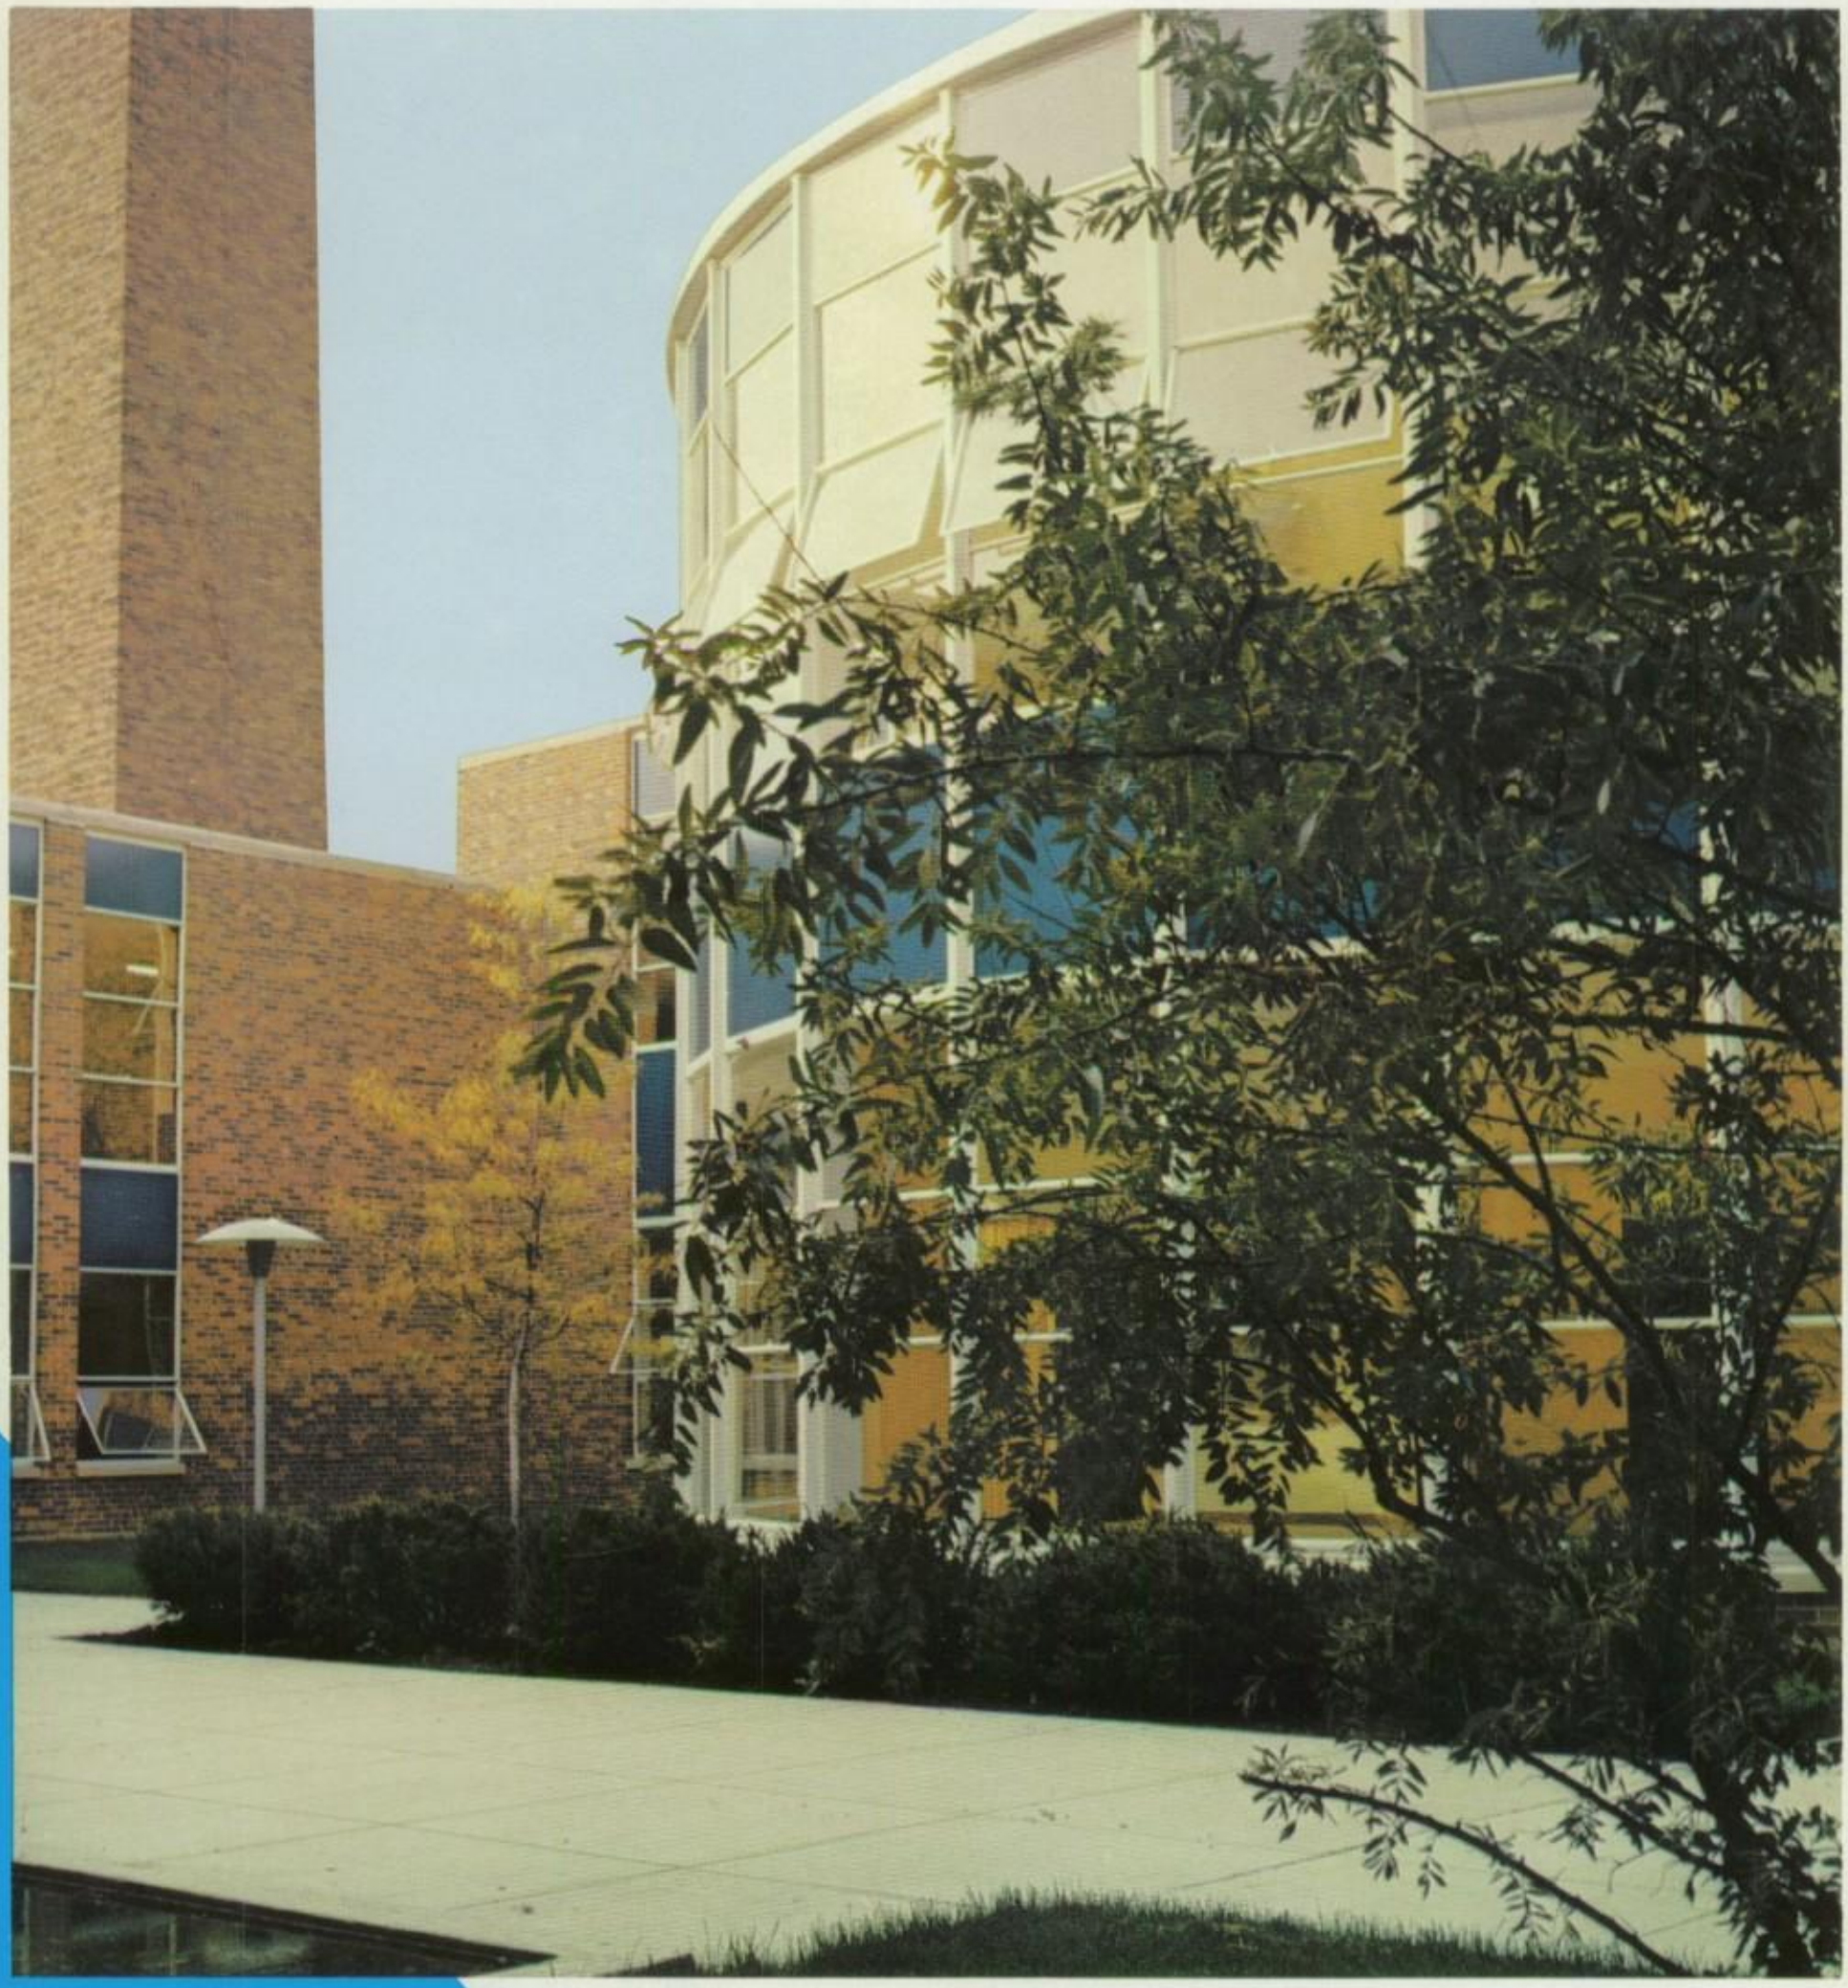
Riverside-Brookfield Township High School, Riverside, Illinois



R-B and the 1963 Rouser Review--

ABILITY—Listening attentively to a classmate's interpretation, a senior English class prepares to discuss her analysis.

R-B-ITY—Despite the hurried lunch hour, upperclassmen take time to socialize and relax.

R-B-ITY—Exemplifying R-B's spirit, the two Bulldog mascots join in the Homecoming activities.

ACTIVITY—Realizing the significance of team effort, the R-B Bulldogs cooperatively play championship caliber basketball.

*Ability, Activity, and R-B-ity

R-B-ity*: a coined word which combines the popular designation for Riverside-Brookfield High School (R-B) and certain intangible qualities (friendliness, sociability, enthusiasm) of its school population.

ACTIVITY—Every muscle is flexed as an R-B competitor prepares to hurl the discus during interscholastic action.

ABILITY—Considering the many and varied expressions of style, art students exhibit their creativity.

ABILITY—During half time at a football game, the band displays its ability in an intricate marching formation.

Students reflected R-B-ity in varied activities

Riverside-Brookfield High School is characterized by ability, activity, and R-B-ity. Ability is reflected in all phases of scholastic and athletic endeavor, from the reading of a play in senior English to the winning of a varsity basketball game. Through organizations, extracurricular activities, and special events, the continuous activity of R-B is recognized. But more important than either of these two elements is R-B-ity, R-B's friendliness and sociability. Neither ability nor activity could expand and grow without R-B-ity; it is this element of friendliness which is the very heart — the spirit — of R-B. R-B-ity is everywhere — on the basketball court, in the history class, and in every corner of R-B. It is found in the faces of R-B-ites as they win their first football game or pass their first algebra test. R-B-ity is part of the rushy, hurried fun in the cafeteria at lunch; it is the congratulations after winning an award, getting a lead in a play, or setting a new swim record. The very spirit of R-B is alive throughout every classroom, laboratory, and lecture room. It is this spirit which endears R-B to the hearts of its students — which makes students proud of their teams even when the odds are against winning. R-B-ity is the essence of Riverside Brookfield; it is a feeling visible everywhere — a feeling of pride and vivid interest in R-B.

Curricular and extra-curricular

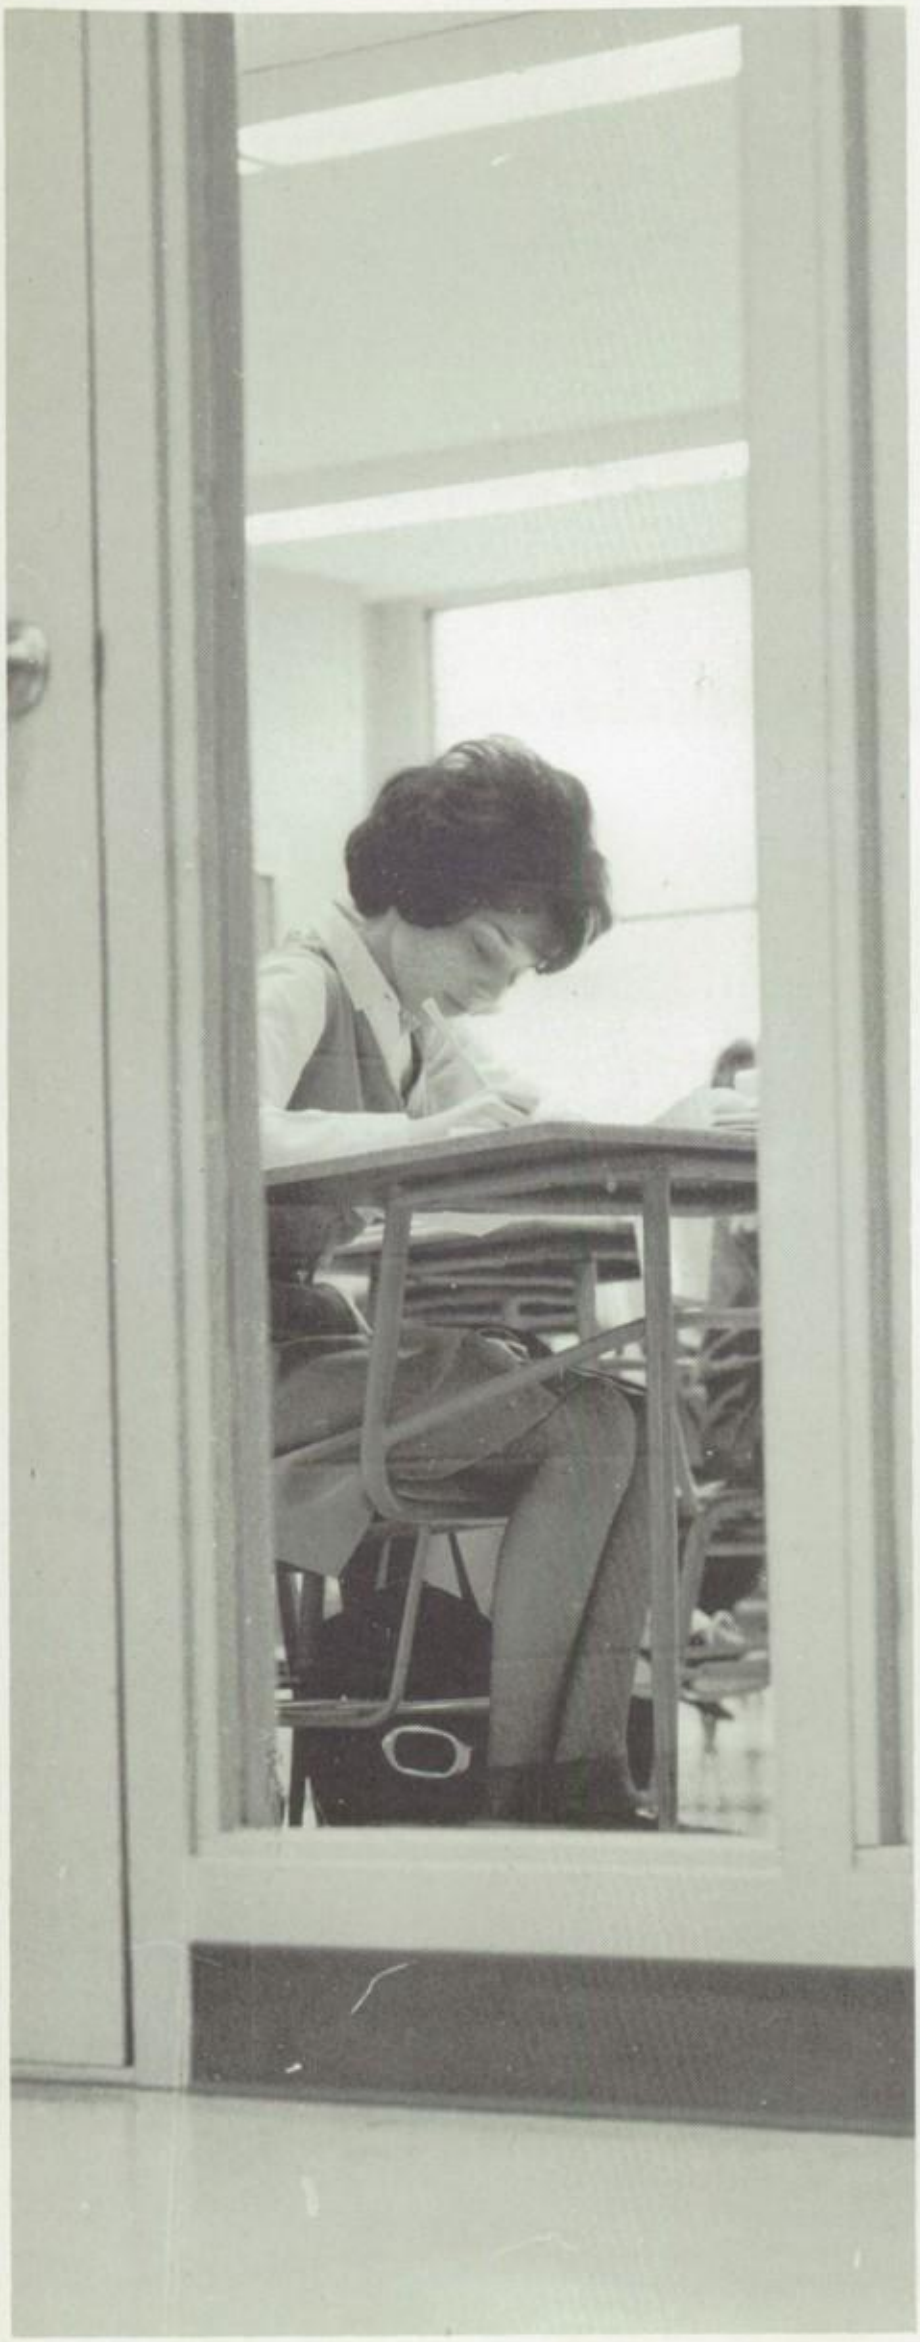
ACTIVITY—With seconds remaining in the game, an R-B gridder faces a tough defense in his final attempt at a score.

ABILITY—A seriousness of purpose is evident in the practical arts courses, typified by this machine shop "apprentice."

ACTIVITY—Models for the Junior-Senior Fashion Show spend hours of rehearsal time in preparation for the event.

activity spurred student ability

ABILITY—Since many R-B students carry increased class loads, each student takes advantage of the allotted time for study.



ACTIVITY—Highlight of the year's events, the 1962 Homecoming and dance, "Knight of Victory," is ruled by the Homecoming court.

R-B-ITY—Cheerleaders whip up enthusiasm and promote support of R-B's winning basketball team.

Classroom

An application of ability and a display of R-B-ity became the fundamental goals in the classrooms of R-B this year. In all phases of academic life — from the freshman civics class to the senior world literature course — emphasis was placed upon utilizing and expanding the student's abilities and talents. A constant striving toward excellence in every field of study became the primary goal of both teachers and students. The art room, the shop wing, and the speech class became focal points for R-B-ity, as students reflected the friendliness of their high school. On the more serious side, the academic classes — American history, sociology, and algebra — mirrored the solemn intentiveness of the students' varied applications of ability. Activity gained a prominent place in every class — from the whirr of the typewriters in the Clarion room to the harmonious sounds of the Choir. The classroom scene saw students endeavor to learn and apply their knowledge to new situations. On all levels the accent was on performance. Freshmen studied grammar and social science, while sophomores tackled Julius Caesar. Juniors pitted their brains against chemistry problems as seniors grappled with American government. Underlying the seriousness of every class was the spirit of R-B-ity, as students strove to help each other in all phases of academic endeavor. In the classrooms there was a spirit of striving — a reaching out to touch the zenith of ability.

Academics showed

R-B offered a four year math program, consisting of basic Algebra 9, Plane Geometry 10, Advanced Algebra and Solid Geometry 11, and College Algebra and Trigonometry 12.

The newly built science laboratories allowed many students to work individually and industriously with up-to-date equipment.

Required courses of Social Science 9, American History 11, and Government and Sociology 12 helped the students to understand the relationship of the United States to other nations.

The students interested in the business world found that R-B offered an excellent training program. Typing and shorthand proved both beneficial and enjoyable for students planning to go to college or directly to work.

Presenting his six-weeks' Biology project to the class, Mike Hummel explains how milk is processed and pasteurized.

"One of the causes of the Civil War was the infiltration of slavery," chants Mr. Dombrowski to his American History class.

Non-academic subjects provided

The industrial art students furthered their interests by the expansion of the electric shop. The auto and wood shop also became centers of learning for the boys.

The girls taking home economics enjoyed cooking and sewing. They also studied flower arranging, millinery, and child behavior. Junior girls who were selected as hostesses spent many fun-filled, but hard-working, hours in the Crescent room.

The addition of spectator sports into the girls' curriculum in physical education showed them how to watch intelligently such sports as football and basketball.

Art class was a place for developing creative ability and expressing feelings.

Preparing to repeat the new sounds, beginning Spanish students in the language laboratory first listen to proper pronunciation.

In the foreign language field, R-B offered four years of German, French, Latin, Spanish, and Russian. Through further use of the language lab, students followed the lingual method.

For the guidance of students in English, A Student Handbook for improving writing skills was issued. Along with this, students were required to write a theme a week.

R-B Welcomed Its First Foreign Exchange Student

In September, 1962, R-B students welcomed Yvonne Roovers, their American Field Service foreign exchange representative from Breda, Holland. A bubbly, energetic, seventeen-year-old, Yvonne quickly adapted herself to her new environment. Sponsored by the R-B School Council, she lived in Riverside at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Hein, whose daughter. Doris, R-B senior student, became her American "sister" and constant companion.

At R-B, Yvonne carried a full academic schedule of American history, speech, beginning Spanish, homemaking, American government, sociology, and physical education. Her extra-curricular program afforded R-B-ites the opportunity to meet her at G.A.A. activities, School Council meetings, Sharclub programs, and Youth Center affairs.

At athletic games, Yvonne cheered the Bulldogs; in the classroom, she demonstrated her fine academic ability; in her social activities, she charmed her American friends. We were proud and honored, Yvonne, that you came to R-B and became one of us.

Faculty and Administration

Behind the students in their endeavors toward developing their abilities, the faculty and administrative staff laid the foundation for future careers. In the classroom, students became aware of the thoughtfulness and sincerity with which teachers sought to help them toward developing knowledge and character. Not only were academics stressed, but discussions on the problems of life — subjects not taught in books — gained importance. These discussions became a basis for a well-rounded background for the students' future. Improving the school was the primary goal of the School Board. Curriculum revising and planning became an important phase of academic improvement, given careful attention by members of the administrative staff. Working closely with R-B athletes, the coaching staff produced winning teams and encouraged players when the odds were against victory. Coaches stressed the development of ability, shown by a constant striving at practice sessions and games. The emphasis was on excellence in all teaching endeavor — whether in the locker rooms at half-time or in a team teaching English class. Faculty and students joined in making every effort toward the fulfillment of talents and the utilization of abilities.

Establishing the educational standards for R-B as well as providing the necessary facilities, faculty, administration, and materials for the achievement of a sound secondary learning environment is the responsibility of the DISTRICT 208 BOARD OF EDUCATION. During the 1962-63 school year, the seven-member Board approved curriculum changes, completed preliminary planning for remodeling of the old building area, and accepted the challenge of budgeting and financing to maintain R-B's status as one of the region's outstanding secondary school systems.

In November, 1962, and again in February, 1963, the Board submitted to the citizens of the communities served by R-B a referendum to increase the educational tax rate. Over the recommendation of the Board, the voters defeated the measure.

Serving as elected representatives, the Board members were active, dedicated civic workers as well as respected business and professional leaders: Robert W. Murphy, vice-president and general counsel, Borg-Warner Corporation; Richard E. Eldred, national buyer, Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company; George W. Glaser, mortician and traffic safety engineer in charge of school safety for Cook County; Michael Kobzan, staff assistant to works manager, International Harvester Company; Mrs. Harold Kracht, housewife; Maurice K. Search, Jr., superintendent, Nalco Chemical Company; Mr. Robert H. Perry, distribution service engineer, Public Service.

Devoting himself to the betterment of education, Mr. Robert W. Murphy diligently serves as president of the Board of Education.

SCHOOL BOARD — SEATED: Mr. Maurice K. Search, Jr.; Mr. Robert H. Perry; Mrs. Harold Kracht. STANDING: Mr. George W. Glaser; Mr. Richard E. Eldred; Mr. Michael Kobzan.

DR. GEORGE W. BROWN . . . Superintendent . . . B.A., Maryville College; Ed.M., University of Buffalo; Ph.D., University of Chicago.

Dr. George W. Brown, dedicated leader and respected educational authority, assumed the responsibilities of superintendent of Riverside-Brookfield High School at the beginning of the 1955-56 school year. Administering the total educational program at R-B, he has witnessed a forty-seven per cent growth in student enrollment — from 1254 pupils in 1955 to the present 1854 school population — and an increase in faculty membership from 62 in 1955 to 107 teachers and administrative personnel for the 1962-63 school year.

Constantly concerned with innovations in educational practice to keep pace with the changing times, Dr. Brown has fostered an expanded curriculum which encouraged students to take five subjects each year rather than the four previously required; introduced accelerated and modified ability grouping classes; expanded the guidance services; extended the language offerings to four years in French, German, Spanish, Russian, and Latin; and strengthened the general supervision of the instructional program.

During his tenure as superintendent, Dr. Brown has planned and supervised a number of building additions and improvements: the additional language rooms and laboratory; the mechanical drawing wing; the remodeled art area; and the nationally recognized science-mathematics laboratories and lecture facilities.

Active in community affairs, Dr. Brown's busy schedule allows little time for other interests, but he does enjoy an occasional round of golf and is an avid reader.

Administration

Serving as the Director of Instruction, Mr. Haworth endeavored to enhance the various courses at R-B. With the cooperation of the department chairmen and other faculty members, he was able to revise and improve the curriculum. Along with planning the school year program, Mr. Haworth was in charge of the summer school.

Carrying out his duties as Dean of Boys, Mr. Thompson was responsible for the attendance, discipline, and general conduct of all R-B boys. Among his other responsibilities, Mr. Thompson conducted the management of honor study halls.

As Dean of Girls, Miss Michael was in charge of the behavior of R-B's girls. Also serving as the head of the Guidance Department, she laid the foundation for the general counseling procedures.

Performing his duties as Business Manager, Mr. Johnson was in charge of purchasing the equipment and materials necessary for a smooth-running school. He was also responsible for the annual budget.

Athletics

An integral part of high school life at Riverside-Brookfield, athletics offered students the opportunity to develop abilities and to foster R-B-ity. Activity became a constant factor as athletes strove to outdo each other, whether at the tennis courts or on the playing field. Gridders and harriers highlighted fall activities while encouraging interest in R-B athletics. A display of constant striving toward achievement was present at swimming meets as the Bullfrogs outswam conference opponents. R-B's Invitational Swim Meet gained recognition as the largest invitational swimming contest in the Midwest. R-B-ity gained its fullest meaning during basketball season. Record crowds packed the R-B gym and neighboring gyms as enthusiastic R-B-ites saw their cagers win game after game and rise to conference co-champions. The Bulldogs proved that even the smallest team can win with a serious application of ability. Spring sports — track, baseball, tennis, and golf — challenged R-B athletes to utilize their talents toward maintaining a high rank in the West Suburban Conference. In all sports — whether swimming or baseball, tennis or track — a sense of good sportsmanship coupled with a desire to achieve drove R-B athletes toward a goal of excellence — in spotlighting activity, developing ability, and enhancing R-B-ity.

Capturing third place in the West Suburban Conference, the FROSH-SOPH BASKETBALL TEAM compiled a record of 9 wins and 5 losses. Boosted by the aid of freshman Joel Klecka, the team almost dropped first place La Grange, but finally succumbed in an overtime thriller. Showing determination to win, the nineteen boys worked to prepare for varsity positions.

Guarded closely, Jim O'Toole drives in for a lay-up shot to score in a Frosh-Soph victory over the Arlington Cardinals.

Under Coach Nikcevich and Assistant Coach Kirtley, the R-B VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM surged to a first place tie with York. The final ranking wasn't known until the last game was played when the Bulldogs walloped Glenbard West and York lost to Arlington, thus forming a co-championship in the West Suburban Conference. Displaying their best season in many years, the team compiled a season total of seventeen wins and five losses and a conference record of eleven wins and three losses. Al Moravec and Tom Kondla were selected to the West Suburban All-Conference basketball team.

Varsity copped tie

Co-captains Jim Fickas and Al Moravec led the Bulldogs to a tie for the West Suburban Conference crown and the first R-B basketball championship in fourteen years.

Marty Berg's two-point lay-up basket scores another two points against Glenbard West in the season's final game which enabled R-B to tie for the West Suburban Conference championship.

During R-B's second conference victory over the co-champion York squad, Al Moravec misses a push shot, and a battle for the rebound results.

With the score at 38-40 during R-B's second encounter with the Downers Grove Trojans on their home floor, the R-B boys get ready to grab the rebound.

Dribbling smoothly around a Proviso West guard in a pre-season non-conference game, Jim Fickas moves the ball into scoring territory.

A Downers Grove guard misses a lay-up, and Bulldogs Jerry Dancik and Tom Kondla move in for the rebound.

Through the spring months, the R-B students could hear the shouts demanding perfection and the crack of bats from the baseball field. The 1962 VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM practiced long hours to improve batting averages and pitching techniques. Coach Lossin helped the team by strengthening their weaknesses and by improving plays. Randall Hrkel was the leading hitter with a batting average of .381. He was followed closely by Charles Kantor with an average of .356. The leading pitcher of the season was Hrkel, who turned in the most games won and the lowest earned run average. Posting a season record of 7 wins and 11 losses and a 5-9 conference record, the team played well throughout the season. James Vogt received the most valuable player award.

This year, PEP CLUB continued active support of R-B's athletic teams. Under the guidance of Miss Revier, the members elected ten board members to govern the club. They met once a month to plan various activities. During football season, the members of Pep Club sat in assigned sections of the grandstand to cheer the team on to victory. Through taffy apple sales and the sales of the blue and white shakers, the club was able to raise the money needed to finance the Pup-ettes, R-B's pom-pom girls. Pep Club undertook the job of selecting the pom-pom girls and assisting them.

All boys who earned their major award in an athletic event were eligible to join LETTERMAN'S CLUB. The lettermen were easily identified by their royal blue "zibs." This club was the only school organization allowed to wear an identifying jacket. At home basketball games, they assisted the faculty and fans by checking coats, maintaining discipline, and guarding entrance and exit doors. They were solely responsible for holding the ropes to keep the fans off the basketball playing floor. They set a fine example to their fellow classmates by offering their services to the school. Under the direction of Mr. VandeMerkt, the group met every month to discuss and plan activities.

Led by Captains Judy Bosch and Janet Altman and Sponsor Miss Rotello, the CHEERLEADERS improved their various jumps and stunts. To learn new cheers, several of the girls attended a summer camp held at Normal, Illinois. During their stay, Janet Writer received the honor of posing with Mr. Cheerleader for the cover of a magazine.

Promoting interest in athletics and sportsmanship were the main goals of G.A.A. At monthly meetings of the board, they met to plan new activities. Every girl was eligible to join the club, and in February an initiation tea was held for those who had earned their first award. Some activities included the Wienie Roast and the Play Night. Awards to outstanding girls were given at the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Organizations

Through R-B's many and varied organizations, students found time for relaxation and deviation from academic life. Activity became the key word to extra-curricular life, as busy R-B-ites planned bake sales, dances, teas, and a bundle drive. It was through R-B's wide range of clubs and school functions that students utilized the spirit of R-B to its fullest. From G.A.A. to Rifle Club, classmates gathered, worked together, and enjoyed the sociability which produced lasting friendships. Service clubs provided students with an opportunity to use their abilities toward bettering the school. Organizations which spotlighted future careers aided students in choosing their life activity. Language clubs gave the student linguist an opportunity to apply knowledge learned in class, thus enriching the meaning of the study of a foreign land and tongue. With the addition of Russian to the curriculum, interested students formed Russian Club as a supplement to their classroom work. Sponsors for all school organizations were members of the faculty, who devoted time and effort toward providing the students with unlimited activities. The development of leadership qualities was emphasized, helping students to prepare for future responsibilities. Organizations presented the basis for the development of ability, the creation of activity, and the enacting of R-B-ity.

Service organizations offered

Fulfillment, enjoyment, and service were once again the goals of SHARCLUB. Fifteen girls, chosen on the basis of leadership, ability, and workmanship, composed the Senate, the governing body of Sharclub. Members of the Senate became chairmen for the many service committees in the club. Proving their ability to work together, members of Sharclub won second place for their Homecoming float. Throughout the year, Sharclub was successful with the Bundle Drive, a collection of clothes for the needy; the Christmas Orphans' Party, which brought happiness and season spirit to many children without a family; and the annual girl-ask-boy Sharclub Dance. This year Riverside-Brookfield hosted the Girls' League Convention. Various girls' clubs from the Chicagoland area were the recipients of R-B and Sharclub's hospitality. The convention was held in order to learn and exchange worthwhile ideas and ideals. Under Miss Michael, Miss Broom, and Miss Harris, Sharclub became the pathway to achievement while encouraging the girls to learn to work and have fun together.

friendly co-operation to students

Helping to implant Christian ideals in R-B students, the HI-Y CLUB, under the sponsorship of Mr. Feddersen, displayed a high degree of friendly and helpful collaboration in its effort to raise the spiritual standards of Riverside-Brookfield High School. Many projects were undertaken throughout the year in order to promote Christian fellowship. Among them were the inspiring Thanksgiving and Easter services, the Christmas party for orphans, and the Christmas reception at Hines Hospital, which was not only well-received by the veterans, but filled a great need as well. Credit was also given to the members of Hi-Y for serving at the G.A.A. Mother-Daughter Banquet. Their many efforts were rewarded during the year, as shown by the success of the annual Hi-Y Christmas formal, "Atop A Star," and the numerous other projects planned. As in every service organization, the members of Hi-Y drew deep satisfaction and enjoyment from their accomplishments and the knowledge that they strengthened the brotherhood of the students of Riverside-Brookfield High School.

Serving others, Council members

One duty of council members is keeping the student body informed by putting up displays on the bulletin board in the main hall.

Ken Kotiza presides over the weekly meeting of the School Council.

Eager to promote better faculty-student relations and to express their fellow classmates' opinions, the members of the 1962-1963 SCHOOL COUNCIL worked enthusiastically toward their goal. Under the leadership of President Ken Kotiza and Adviser Mr. Schlueter, the group met weekly and planned many extra-curricular activities. Included in these were three council-sponsored dances and the highly successful Homecoming week-end. Long range plans became a reality when R-B's foreign exchange student, Yvonne Roovers, arrived. She participated in council activities and came regularly to the council meetings. The annual "Know Your Council Week" was highlighted by an unrehearsed council meeting held before the student body. Through taffy-apple sales and the slave auction, the Council was able to raise money to finance their many and varied activities. The Council continued their support of their eight-year-old Greek foster child, Iraklis Konstantinos. Through a plan which began in 1960, Konstantinos has received many useful and necessary articles. Being of service to their community and their school, the Council worked with unlimited enthusiasm to make R-B better.

BIOS LOGOS, R-B's second oldest organization, provided a pleasant and fascinating accent on the study of biology. This year's program, directed by Sponsor Mrs. Klein, furthered knowledge and interest in the scientific field. Stimulated by films, lectures, and excursions, interested students observed and experimented with living organisms. In the fall and spring, members participated in hikes to various outlying areas, including a guided tour of the Morton Arboretum. One of the year's highlights was a lecture by a representative of the American Cancer Society.

The LIBRARY AIDES assisted students in all phases of library work. Under the guidance of Sponsors Mrs. Campbell and Miss Brainerd, the league members extended their knowledge of the library and the care of its books. Members of the League were selected on the basis of dependability and skill in working with others. The Library Aides attended monthly pot-luck dinners; and during the Christmas holidays, they participated in a progressive dinner. In the spring the League held a banquet at which outstanding Aides were honored.

Wearing new robes and singing 70 strong, the A CAPELLA CHOIR enhanced the holidays at the Hi-Y Thanksgiving Service and the Christmas Concert. After Christmas the Choir started work on the annual District 208 grade school tour. The Easter Service and the West Suburban Conference Music Festival marked high points in the Choir's year. Concluding the season, the Choir sang at Baccalaureate and Commencement. To other interested students, the FROSH-SOPH CHORUS and GIRLS' and BOYS' GLEE CLUBS offered opportunities for furthering vocal music experience.

Instrumentalists performed ably

Lending musical entertainment to basketball games and pep assemblies, the PEP BAND displayed enthusiasm and ability in playing popular music. The more serious aspect of the music program was the CONCERT BAND. They played for many of the school functions, including Baccalaureate and Commencement. Climaxing many weeks of practice, the BAND performed intricate formations during half-time at football games. Their precision marching provided an entertaining touch for the student body. In the spring, the Band hosted the annual spring concert, at which all the grammar schools in the R-B district were invited to perform with the Band.

Practicing daily during the second period, the ORCHESTRA had a busy season participating at the Freshman and Sophomore Mothers' Teas as well as other school functions. Under Mr. Collins, the orchestra performed at the District Grade School-High School and West Suburban Music-Festivals.

As a concert draws near, members of Orchestra practice in preparation for their performance.

Publications staffs strained to Each ROUSER staff member worked toward the goal of excellence by all three staffs co-operating with each other under Sponsor Mr. Mohrhusen and Editor-in-chief Pam Mortel. These staffs — the art staff, copy staff, and photography staff — worked with tension as the deadlines drew near. By scheduling over 4000 pictures, the photography staff accomplished the task of seeing that everyone at R-B was pictured at least once. Of all the pictures taken, the art staff selected approximately 2000 of these to be cropped and used in the yearbook. Keeping in mind that the 1962 Rouser received the First Class Honor Rating, the staff strived to achieve the highest possible rating, that of All-American, for the 1963 Rouser.

Rouser staff members endeavor to finish their assignments.

Learning to edit creative writing was one goal set by the members of the DIMENSIONS staff. Under the direction of Editor-in-chief Polly Beery-Polglase and Sponsor Miss Traphagen, the staff met weekly to select pieces of creative literature for publication in the Dimensions magazine. Each member read all literary entries and rated them. Those receiving high ratings were published in the magazine.

With energy and enthusiasm, the CLARION staff of 25 met eighth hour daily and worked hard on R-B's school paper. Although no major changes had taken place, a new name plate, drawn professionally, enhanced the front page. The staff put out its annual Christmas issue which included poems and short articles by the student body. For those interested, a staff group went to the Illinois State High School Press Association Convention to further their knowledge of newspaper techniques and ideas. Under the sponsorship of Miss Lewis and the co-editorship of Glenn Davis and William Nolden, the staff produced creditable school journalism.

Swimmers learned lifesaving

Practicing the skills of lifesaving are Robert Maxant and Joel Pondelik; George Johnston and Michael Shanahan.

The LIFE GUARD CLUB, under the direction of Mr. Halverson, learned the skills of life saving and water safety. After receiving their training, the members were employed as guards for all school swimming activities. Monthly meetings provided the life guards with an opportunity to brush up on lifesaving skills. During the second semester, the members taught swimming at the Saturday morning learn-to-swim classes for grammar school children. Various teaching techniques were stressed, as well as the careful preparation of stroking exactness. Life Guard members acted as the hosts and ushers for the R-B Invitational Swim Meet. Skillful members obtained summer guarding jobs at local pools and beaches.

Workshops, under the direction of Sponsor Mrs. Lund, were held for returning and prospective members of SABRINA SWIM CLUB in order to prepare them for tryouts and skills tests. New members who tried out had to earn at least 70 out of a possible 110 points by doing the basic skills in order to become a Sabrina member. In December some of the members went to Northwestern University, where the college students taught new skills and helped them to perfect old skills. Several Sabrina girls returned to Northwestern in February to see a swim show presented there by the Dolphin Club. A few members who wished to be in a routine at the spring festival held in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, perfected their stunts for the tryouts.

Students prepared for the future

Open to any girl who had taken or was taking home economics, the FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA promoted interest in the varied area of homemaking. Speakers at each meeting presented talks on specific subjects, including flower arranging and knitting. In the fall, members gave their annual fall tea and took great pride in their homecoming float which won first place. At Christmas they gave gifts of soap to orphanages. Closing the year, the club sponsored its yearly dinner, and active members received pins for participation throughout the year.

Starting as a new organization this year, the AMATEUR RADIO CLUB strove to further the interest in not only radios but general electronics. The meetings, which took place every two weeks, consisted of movies on electronics, guest speakers from the Federal Communications Commission, and work periods at which the members could bring their mechanical projects to work and seek help on. One of the main goals of the club was to help members obtain their federal licenses for operating an amateur radio station.

Promoting interest in the teaching field was the FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA's goal. Speakers at each meeting gave talks on different areas of teaching from physical education to librarian, and an unusual guest from India spoke on teaching in foreign lands. The club started a new project last year which was the children's reading hour. Every Saturday, members read to children at the Brookfield Library. To raise money the F. T. A. sponsored bake sales. The club gave its annual Christmas potluck dinner and its Mother-Daughter Tea in the spring at which next year's officers were announced and pins were given to eligible members. The F. T. A. completed an event-filled year under the sponsorship of Miss Lewis and Mrs. Krause.

Furthering the interest in nursing, the FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA met once a month to discuss careers and opportunities in this field. Throughout the year, many of the members were conducted on tours through several local hospitals. Those F.N.A. members who showed interest in nursing as a future career devoted time to working as candy-stripers. As nursing assistants, they performed numerous tasks — from reading to handicapped children to writing letters for the blind. As a money-making project, F.N.A. sold R-B shakers during football games. At Christmas they made and collected toys for orphanages, thus furthering their striving to help others.

NURSE'S ASSISTANTS, willing to give up a daily study hall, assisted Mrs. Vacula with her duties as school nurse. These girls, genuinely interested in nursing, helped in doing the more routine work. Minor medical tasks, including bandaging and giving aspirin, helped give them a better picture of nursing as a vocation. Working in the nurse's office was not the only activity. As a group, the girls toured hospitals to acquire a better idea of a nurse's routine.

Running errands for the employees of the personnel office, OFFICE ASSISTANTS learned the fundamental techniques of office efficiency. Under the supervision of Mrs. Arnold, students learned methods of answering the telephone pleasantly and taking accurate and reliable messages. Selected on the basis of grades, enthusiasm, and character, the assistants contributed one free period a day assisting with varied duties of the office.

At RIFLE CLUB meetings, under the supervision of Sponsor Mr. Fee, amateur riflemen learned proper handling and care of firearms. After safety rules were learned, members were taught the techniques of accurate shooting. In order to accomplish this, the club met four days a week. This schedule allowed each member to shoot at least once a week to improve his skill. Some members took part in the NRA postal matches and tried to earn NRA awards for marksmanship.

BRIDLE AND SADDLE CLUB, formed to further the enjoyment and knowledge of horsemanship, offered students an opportunity to ride regularly at Keith Line Stables. With the supervision of Mr. Schlueter and Miss Kukar, the club met monthly to discuss riding schedules and special program plans. To earn money toward horseback rides, the club held taffy apple and bake sales.

Friday's weekly meetings provided the members of CHESS CLUB with the opportunity and the instruction needed to improve their ability to play a masterful game of chess. Through repeated exercises and strategy plays, members with common interests competed against one another and against the chess clubs of neighboring schools. Regular tournaments decided the best teams. Through demonstration by champions in lectures and sample games, students mastered the basic skills of chess. In devising a point system, each player was evaluated according to his abilities. By adding and subtracting points from previous scores, members were better able to match themselves with their opponents.

FILM PROJECTIONISTS assisted faculty by manipulating film projectors and sound equipment in the Auditorium, the Little Theater, and in classrooms. Audio-visual materials helped further students' education in almost all phases of academic life. While expanding their own knowledge of the equipment, projectionists made it possible for students to view material that was supplementary to ordinary classwork. Boys, selected on the basis of their willingness to aid during free periods, were supervised by Mr. Ellingson. Higher efficiency was reached by the selecting of a captain for each hour. His duty was to see that all projections ran smoothly. The school presented pins of service to each of the members.

During their semi-monthly educational meetings, members of MATH CLUB, under the direction of Mr. Nemecek, discussed new fields in the world of math. The topics covered were ones normally not offered in high school courses. By individual study, each member could explore the field that interested him most. Students shared their knowledge with the other members by studying and then reporting on different subjects relating to math. One such topic was Careers in Mathematics. Through this discussion, members became acquainted with mathematics fields open to them for future vocations. Interested upperclassmen were given the opportunity to attend special lectures given at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

PRO MERITO, R-B's only social honor club, provided enthusiastic Latin students with a successful, activity-filled year. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Hoppert, students recreated an atmosphere of ancient Roman culture and tradition. Held in the spring, the annual Roman Banquet, complete with togas, high-lighted the year's activities. The banquet, conducted in authentic Roman style, opened with a sacrifice to the gods and closed with a prayer to Jupiter. Freshman members served as slaves and were called upon to perform acts of obedience to their upperclass masters. Other activities during the year included a Christmas party, the freshman initiation, and a Latin treasure hunt.

Under the leadership of Miss Thompson, the FRENCH CLUB held meetings every month to plan new and varied activities. Organized to promote interest in the French language and to provide a social group for those studying French, French Club awarded pins to active members. Eating dinner at a French restaurant highlighted the year. Ordering meals in French proved to be exciting and different and enabled French students to utilize the knowledge learned in class. During Christmas vacation the group went caroling to various parts of the town and afterwards met at the school for their annual Christmas party. Miss Thompson, who has traveled extensively in France, was the speaker at one of the meetings. Her subject, which interested everyone, was the differences of teen life in the United States and France.

As a new club formed this year, RUSSIAN CLUB did its best to foster interest in the culture of Russia. Organized as a social and educational group for those studying Russian, the club planned many interesting and entertaining programs. During Christmas vacation, they attended a Russian Christmas program at the Museum of Science and Industry, followed by a Russian dinner. To raise money for their projects, the club held bake sales throughout the year. With the help of sponsor Mr. Koncius, the club presented many worthwhile activities. As a combined effort with Spanish Club, the two groups held their Christmas parties together. This helped the students to note the differences between languages and various customs. Although still a small club, Russian Club planned to expand its membership through promoting the study of Russian.

As the largest language club at R-B, the SPANISH CLUB planned programs on different aspects of Spanish culture. At their monthly meetings, the club's sponsors taught Spanish games and songs and discussed Spanish customs. Highlighting the year was the winning of second place for their Homecoming float. By incorporating with Russian Club, the groups were able to have an outstanding and different Christmas party. A comparison was then taken to determine the likes and differences of the two countries. During the year, a dinner at a local Spanish restaurant was planned. The group experienced new tastes and differences in Spanish and Mexican food. Every year, Spanish Club helps to sponsor the trip to Mexico during the Easter vacation period.

Interested in the national language of Germany, members of the GERMAN CLUB tried to learn and understand more about German culture and customs. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Wilke, the group took part in many enjoyable and worthwhile activities. Although their Homecoming float did not win a prize, it clearly showed the effort and imagination put forth by the club. During Christmas vacation, the club held their annual Christmas party in the Alumni Lounge. Highlighting their preparations for the party was the making of an Advent wreath, which symbolized the twelve days of Christmas. At the party, the group took part in games and songs which the German people have handed down for generations. Another event in their year was eating at a German restaurant. Ordering dishes in the German language proved to the individual student the extent of his conversational abilities. Lectures on German life, movies, and group co-operation rounded out an enjoyable year for the members of German Club.

Special Events

Of all phases of high school life, the one most characterized by R-B-ity was special events. A cordial, friendly atmosphere greeted R-B students at the Council dances, the Sharclub turnabout, and the Hi-Y formal. This same friendliness, coupled with a touch of humor or mystery, was found at school plays and dramatic events. Highlighting fall activities, Homecoming weekend presented glitter and excitement to R-B-ites in the true spirit of R-B-ity. Everything was buzzing with the activity of the pep rally, parade, football game, and the dance, "Knight of Victory." The two Council play nights provided students with fun, friends, and sports activities. These play nights, open to all R-B-ites, provided almost every type of school athletic apparatus for the students' use. The high point in the social calendar was the Junior Prom, which was the culmination of a busy year's work for the upperclassmen. On the less formal side of events were the teas, dinners, and programs given by various school organizations. Fund-raising projects for these activities ranged from bake sales to the selling of bulldog posters and buttons. Special events of every kind—whether a Beceus tea or the Junior Prom—provided students with interest and activity and accented the sociability of R-B.

Highlighting fall activities, Homecoming weekend got under way with a colorful fireworks display and the announcement of the queen. A torch-lighting ceremony in the tennis courts followed, and R-B-ites as well as alumni were invited to dance and socialize in the friendly atmosphere. Brightly colored floats decked the morning parade as each school organization depicted its own characters following the medieval theme. The football kickoff against the Downers Grove Trojans presented an exciting afternoon, highlighted by the presentation of float awards. The culmination of the weekend's festivities was the dance "Knight of Victory." R-B-ites and alumni enjoyed another unforgettable Homecoming weekend.

Dancing and chatting, couples mingle in the fairy tale atmosphere at Sharclub's annual girl-ask-boy semi-formal dance.

A senior girl presents her date with a boutonniere remembrance.

The Sharclub wizards and their dates lead the opening dance.

"Evening in Oz," Sharclub's annual girl-ask-boy dance, centered around the characters in the fairy story, "The Wizard of Oz." Dressed in semi-formal attire, couples danced amid cut-outs of the wicked witch from the north, the lion, and the Munchkins. Highlighting the evening was the crowning of the class wizards—the four boys who received the most female votes.

The Oz lion gains attention from Paul Jirka and Susan Berry.

With agility and co-ordination, the Pupettes synchronize a routine.

The newest organization at R-B, the Pupettes, offered interested girls an opportunity to perform synchronized dance routines at basketball games and pep assemblies.

Planned for the Junior Class, the annual Washington trip offered tours of interest spots, including colonial Williamsburg, the nation's capital, and New York City.

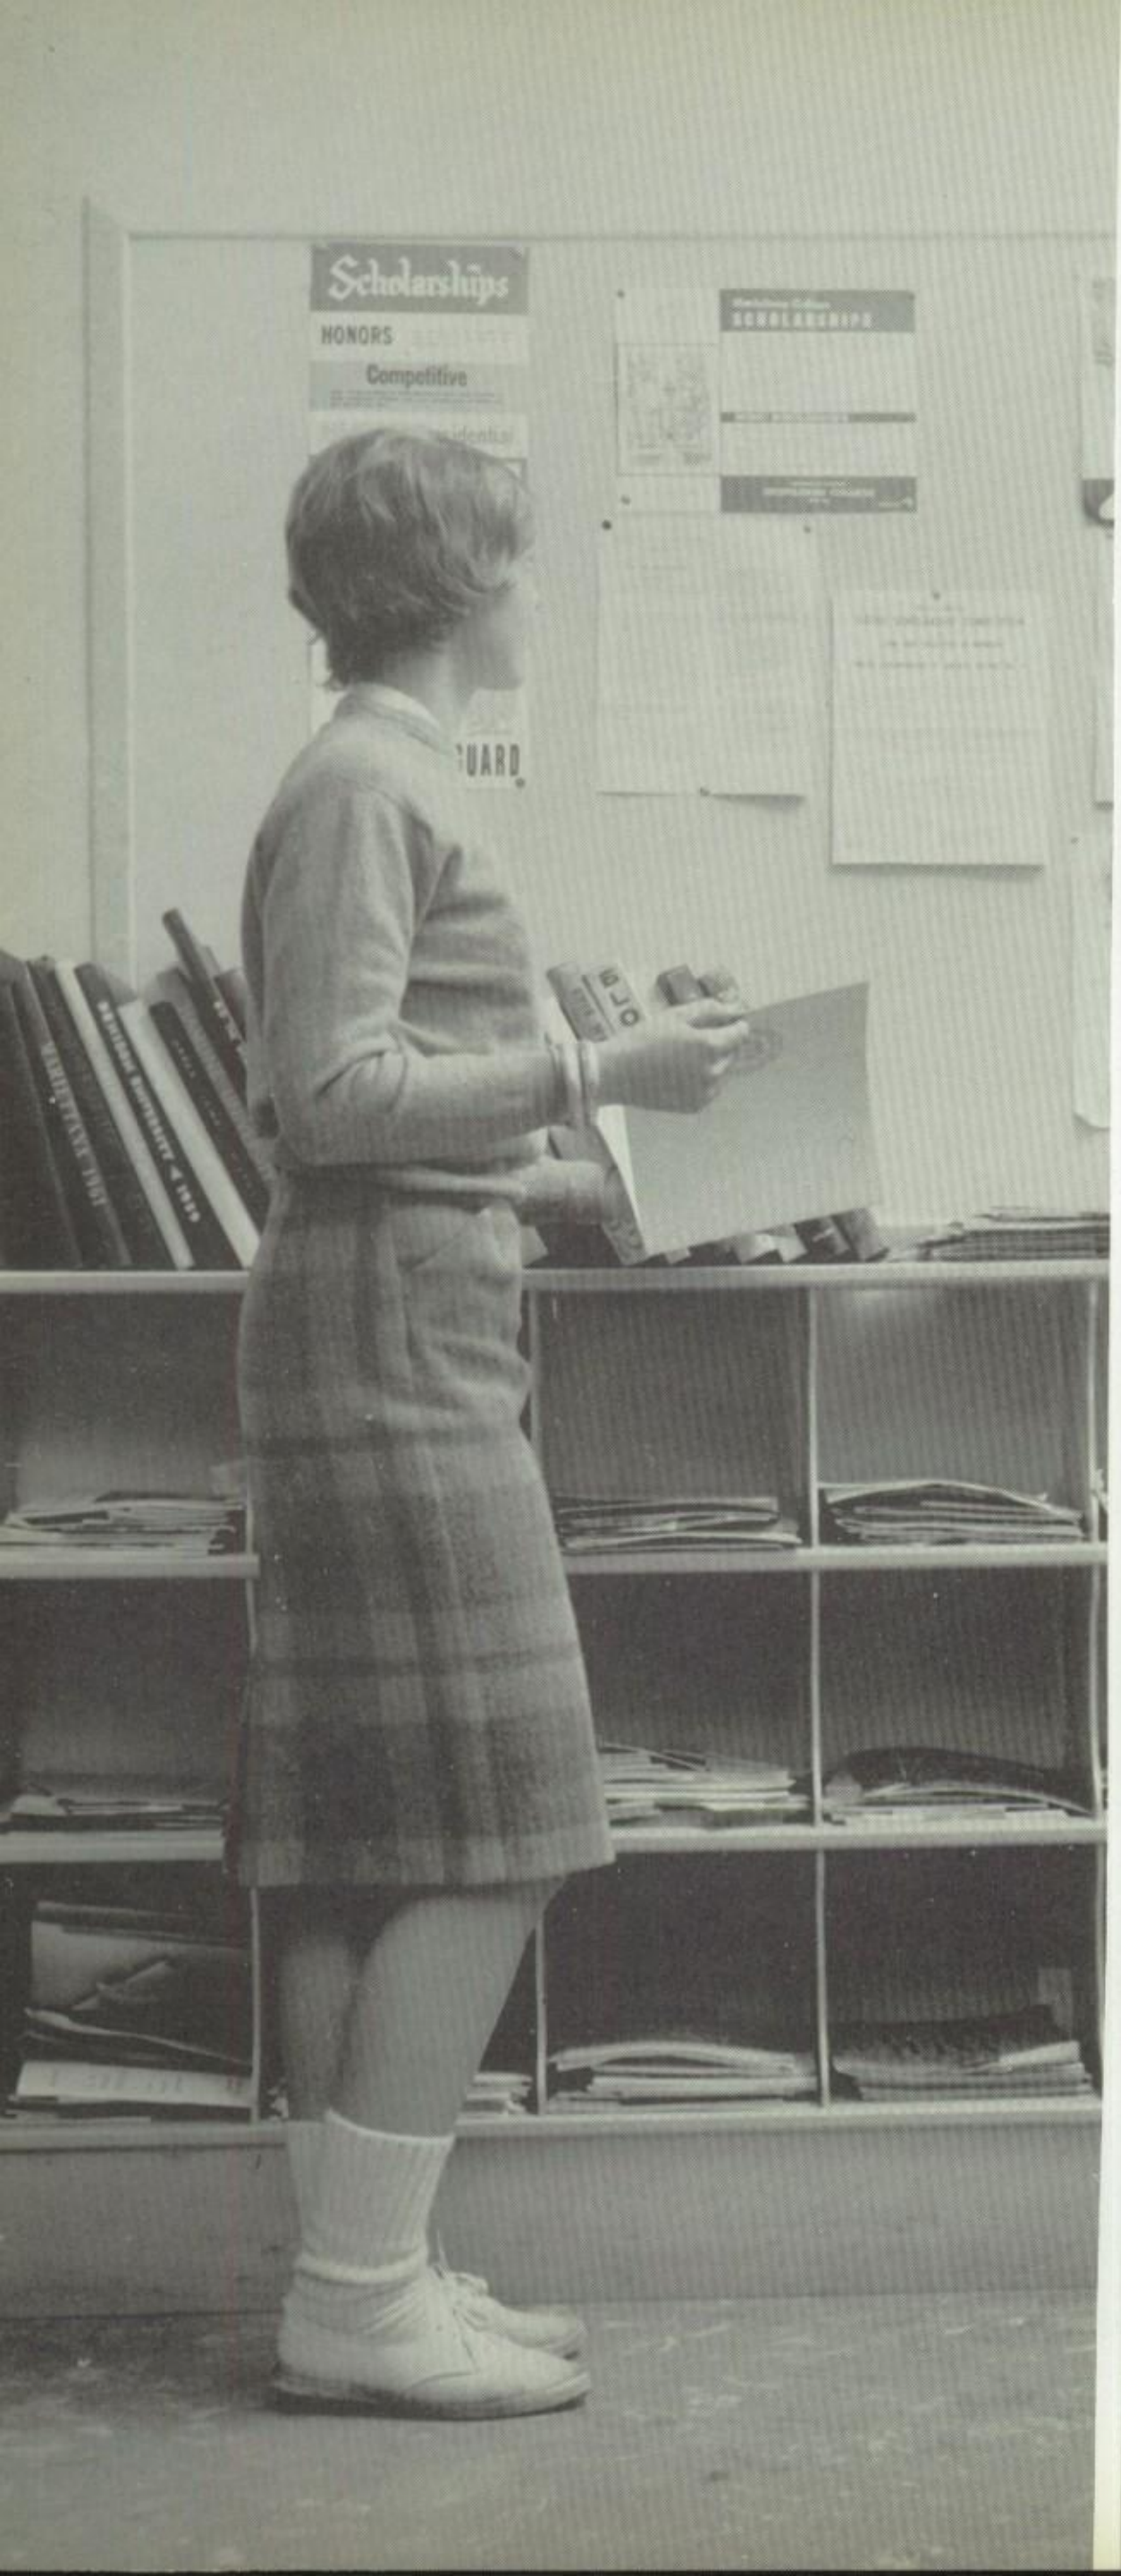
Culminating a year of planning, "Michigana Mood," R-B's 1962 Junior Prom, was a social event to be long remembered. Held at beautiful McCormick Place on Lake Michigan, the Prom offered dance music, refreshments, and lakeside strolling for formal-clad couples. The Prom atmosphere, with music and ruffling skirts, provided sociability and friendliness for everyone.

Leaving McCormick Place, senior couples recall "Michigana Mood."



Seniors

With a watchful eye to the future, the Class of '63 completed a successful high school career. Looking back on four years of achievement, the seniors nostalgically recalled their first dance, lyceum, and pep assembly. Their freshman year, with its excitement and activity, quickly drew to a close, as their sophomore year dawned bright with new responsibilities. Sophomores attended athletic events with new enthusiasm. Members of the '63 graduating class greeted their junior year as newly-elected officers of school organizations. Academics played an important role, and a college future materialized at the college board exam sessions. Seniors at last, the Class of '63 put forth one final effort to make their high school career successful and worthwhile. Scholastics were not forgotten; seven seniors qualified as National Merit finalists, and thirty-two students ranked as Illinois State Scholarship semi-finalists. R-B seniors earned more than $70,000 in scholarships, and 70 per cent went on to colleges and universities in all parts of the nation. The culmination of four years of ability, activity, and R-B-ity, graduation marked the end of one life and the beginning of a new one. Their high school career and secondary school world behind them, the Class of 1963 looked ahead to a future of college and careers for new challenges and opportunities.

Seniors

Class of '63

Veterans of high school life, the CLASS OF '63 eagerly looked forward to the adult world of experience and responsibility. Throughout the year, achievement and successs marked their course. Each project that was undertaken added to their contribution to the high school. Most of the projects were set for one goal, that of raising money for the Senior Class gift to donate to Riverside-Brookfield. Highlights of the year included the class dance, which was held in April, and the class dinner, which was held before graduation. This dinner afforded the seniors a last get-together, a time to wish old friends good luck, and a time to read the class will. When the end of their last school year approached, the seniors became part of the alumni membership drive. The drive was held to encourage the members of the Class of '63 to join the Alumni Association. Along with projects, the seniors became acquainted with various academic subjects. Mathematically-minded students tackled college algebra and analytic geometry while those interested in forms of science worked their way through physics problems. New forms of the social sciences were introduced to the fourth year students. Among these subjects were government and sociology.

A sense of the ending of one phase of life and the beginning of another was apparent as seniors were called for the fittings of graduation robes, and finally as they attended the Baccalaureate Service and Commencement Exercises.

Underclasses

Reflecting every phase of R-B-ity, underclassmen strove to make close and lasting friendships while keeping an active eye on scholastic achievement. Freshmen giggled and tittered in their new surroundings, aware of the sociability of the school; these same students found the challenge of a high school curriculum equal to their anxious expectations. Civics presented new ideas on citizenship, while English offered a foundation in the classics, Already acquainted with the spirit of R-B, the sophomores began to take on positions of leadership, thus proving their abilities in all phases of school life. work together by winning the Bundle Drive. Activities played a major role in their lives, as the sophomores supported their Bullpups on the courts and the playing fields. The leaders of the underclassmen, the juniors, planned diligently for their prom, which was held at the Palmer House. Activity was a constant factor in the lives of every R-B-ite, whether in the classroom, on the playing field, or at an extra-curricular function. An emphasis toward utilizing talents and abilities was the continuous goal throughout every school activity. Every R-B student gave time and energy to pursuing his own goals, whether in scholastics or activities; heading this list of goals was the stressing of the perfection of ability.

Juniors

Class of '64

With the realization that they were at last upperclassmen, the CLASS OF '64 met school life with renewed enthusiasm. Two years of high school were behind them, and they felt capable to undertake anything that this, their junior year, might offer them. Throughout the year new experiences molded them into responsible young men and women who participated in fund-raising projects, such as bake sales and taffy-apple sales, and who planned and presented entertainment to the student body. The entertainment included the Junior-Senior Fall Fashion Show and the Junior Class girl-ask-boy bermuda dance, "Monster Mash." During a week in November, the junior boys and girls worked diligently and were rewarded by winning the 1962 Bundle Drive and seeing their candidate, Dick Pekarek, crowned King of the Bundle Drive. A willingness to work was apparent as the juniors planned for the Junior-Senior Prom. Thoughts and actions showed plainly that they wanted this to be the outstanding event of the year. Much of their time was spent pondering over chemistry assignments, reading chapters out of American history, and tackling new novels in team-teaching English classes. Guided by their sponsors, Mr. Fee and Mr. Rainey, the class of '64 displayed an excellent ability in meeting their responsibilities.

Class of '65

Now acquainted with R-B and its hallways, rooms, and surroundings, the CLASS OF '65 introduced itself to many challenging new activities. In addition to sponsoring buses to away football and basketball games, the second year students participated in fund-raising projects. Social life took on new aspects as the sophomores planned their class dance, "Blues in the Night," with freshman class cooperation. Along with projects, the sophomores witnessed the growth of their academic life. This year they struggled through their first geometry lesson and their first translations of Julius Caesar. Interested students watched and listened attentively as second year language teachers explained new vocabulary and grammar devices. In biology classes, students experienced with mixed emotions their first dissection of frogs, worms, and crayfish. Unbelieving glances shone on the faces of some girls as they first came in contact with drivers' training in their physical education classes, just as these same expressions appeared on the faces of the boys as they realized they would spend the next six weeks square-dancing with the girls. Eager to be upperclassmen, sophomores proved their capability and willingness in their contributions to the school.

Freshmen

With mixed emotions, the CLASS OF '66 entered into the busy life of high school students. An entirely new curriculum was presented to them through the facilities at R-B. After their first days of remembering locker combinations and teachers' names, freshmen settled down and truly became members of the student body. Class officers were elected and, through the newly elected student council representatives, the freshmen discovered a new way of voicing their opinions. As the year progressed, freshmen became acquainted with their new subjects. Among these subjects were algebra, biology, and various foreign languages. In physical education classes, first aid was taught the students along with other useful activities including basic rhythms. Throughout the year, the first year students held taffy apple sales and bake sales, thus learning how to raise the funds needed for special projects. One of their projects was the combined freshman and sophomore class dance, "Blues in the Night," held in January. During Freshmen Pep Week, the Class of '66 had the most attendance, proving their pride and willingness to help their school. At the basketball game during their pep week, 71 per cent of their class attended.

Joining clubs, participating in events, and going to sports events were all a part of their new lives, lives that would mature during their years at R-B.

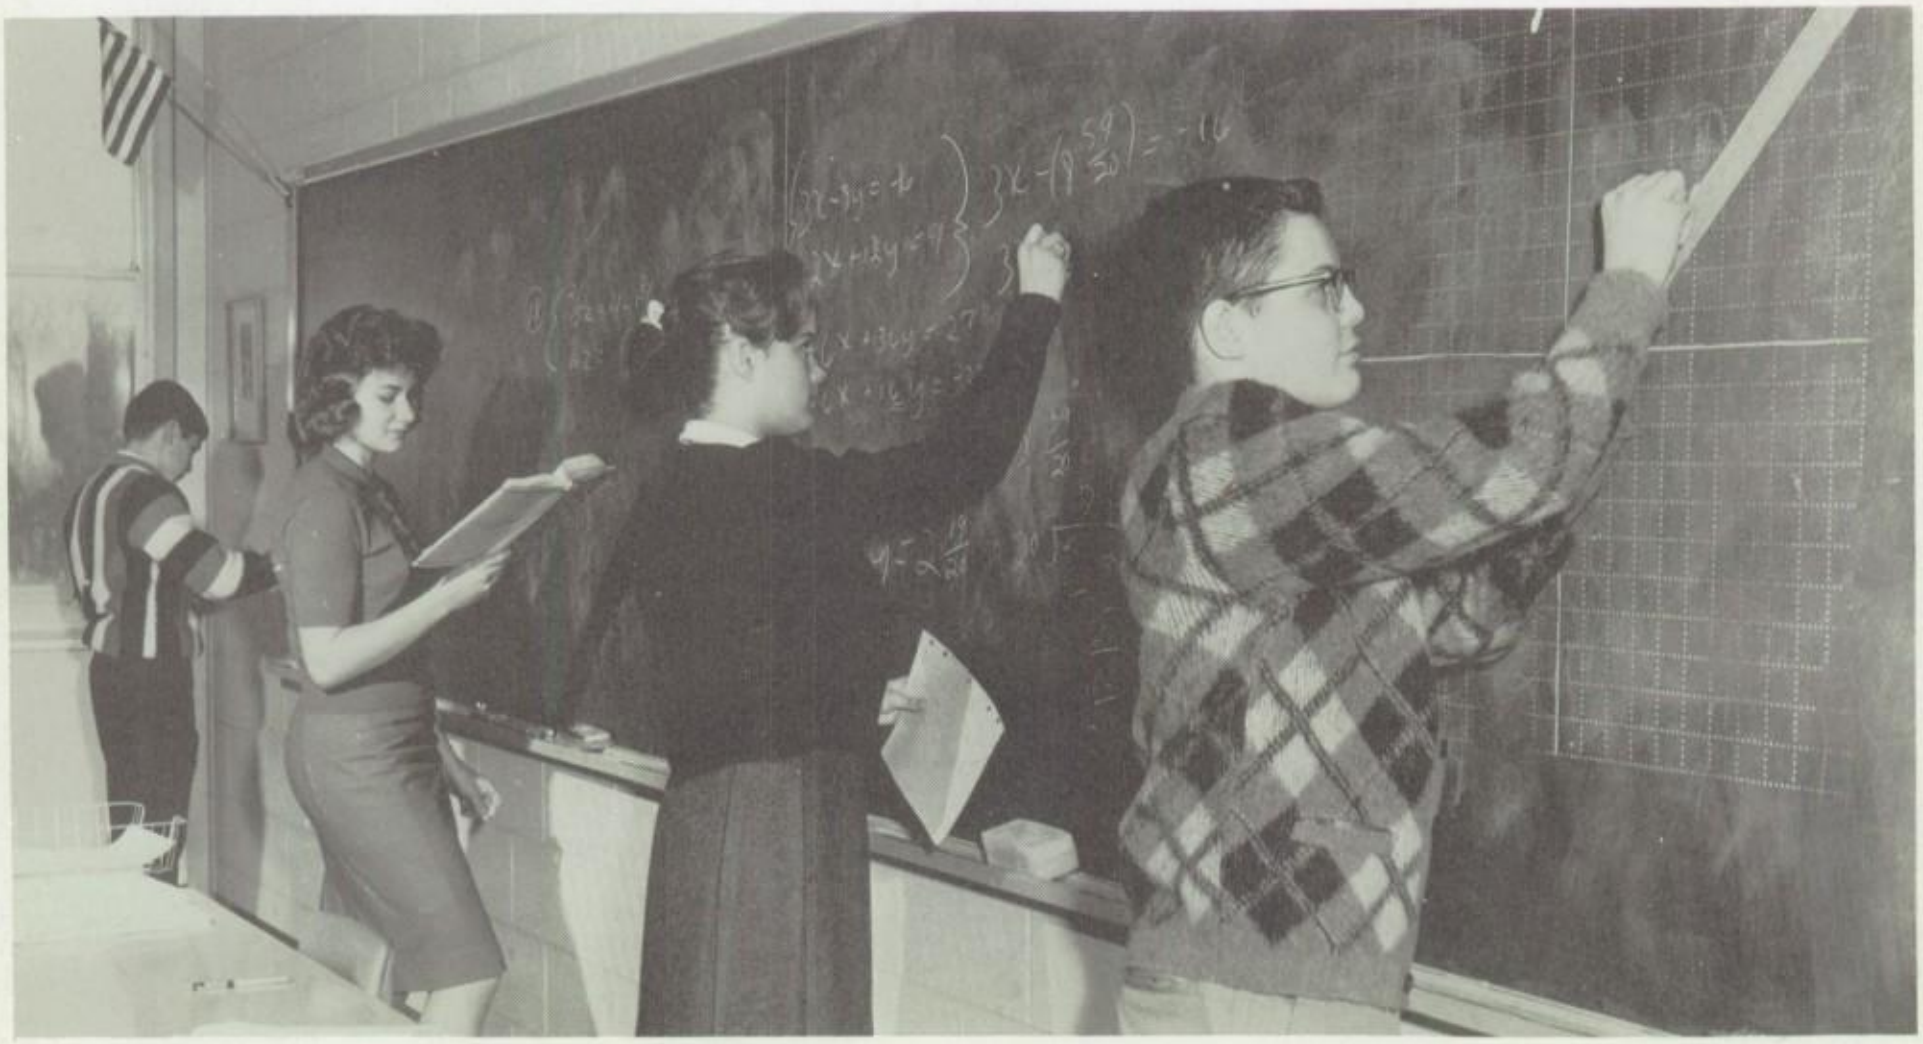
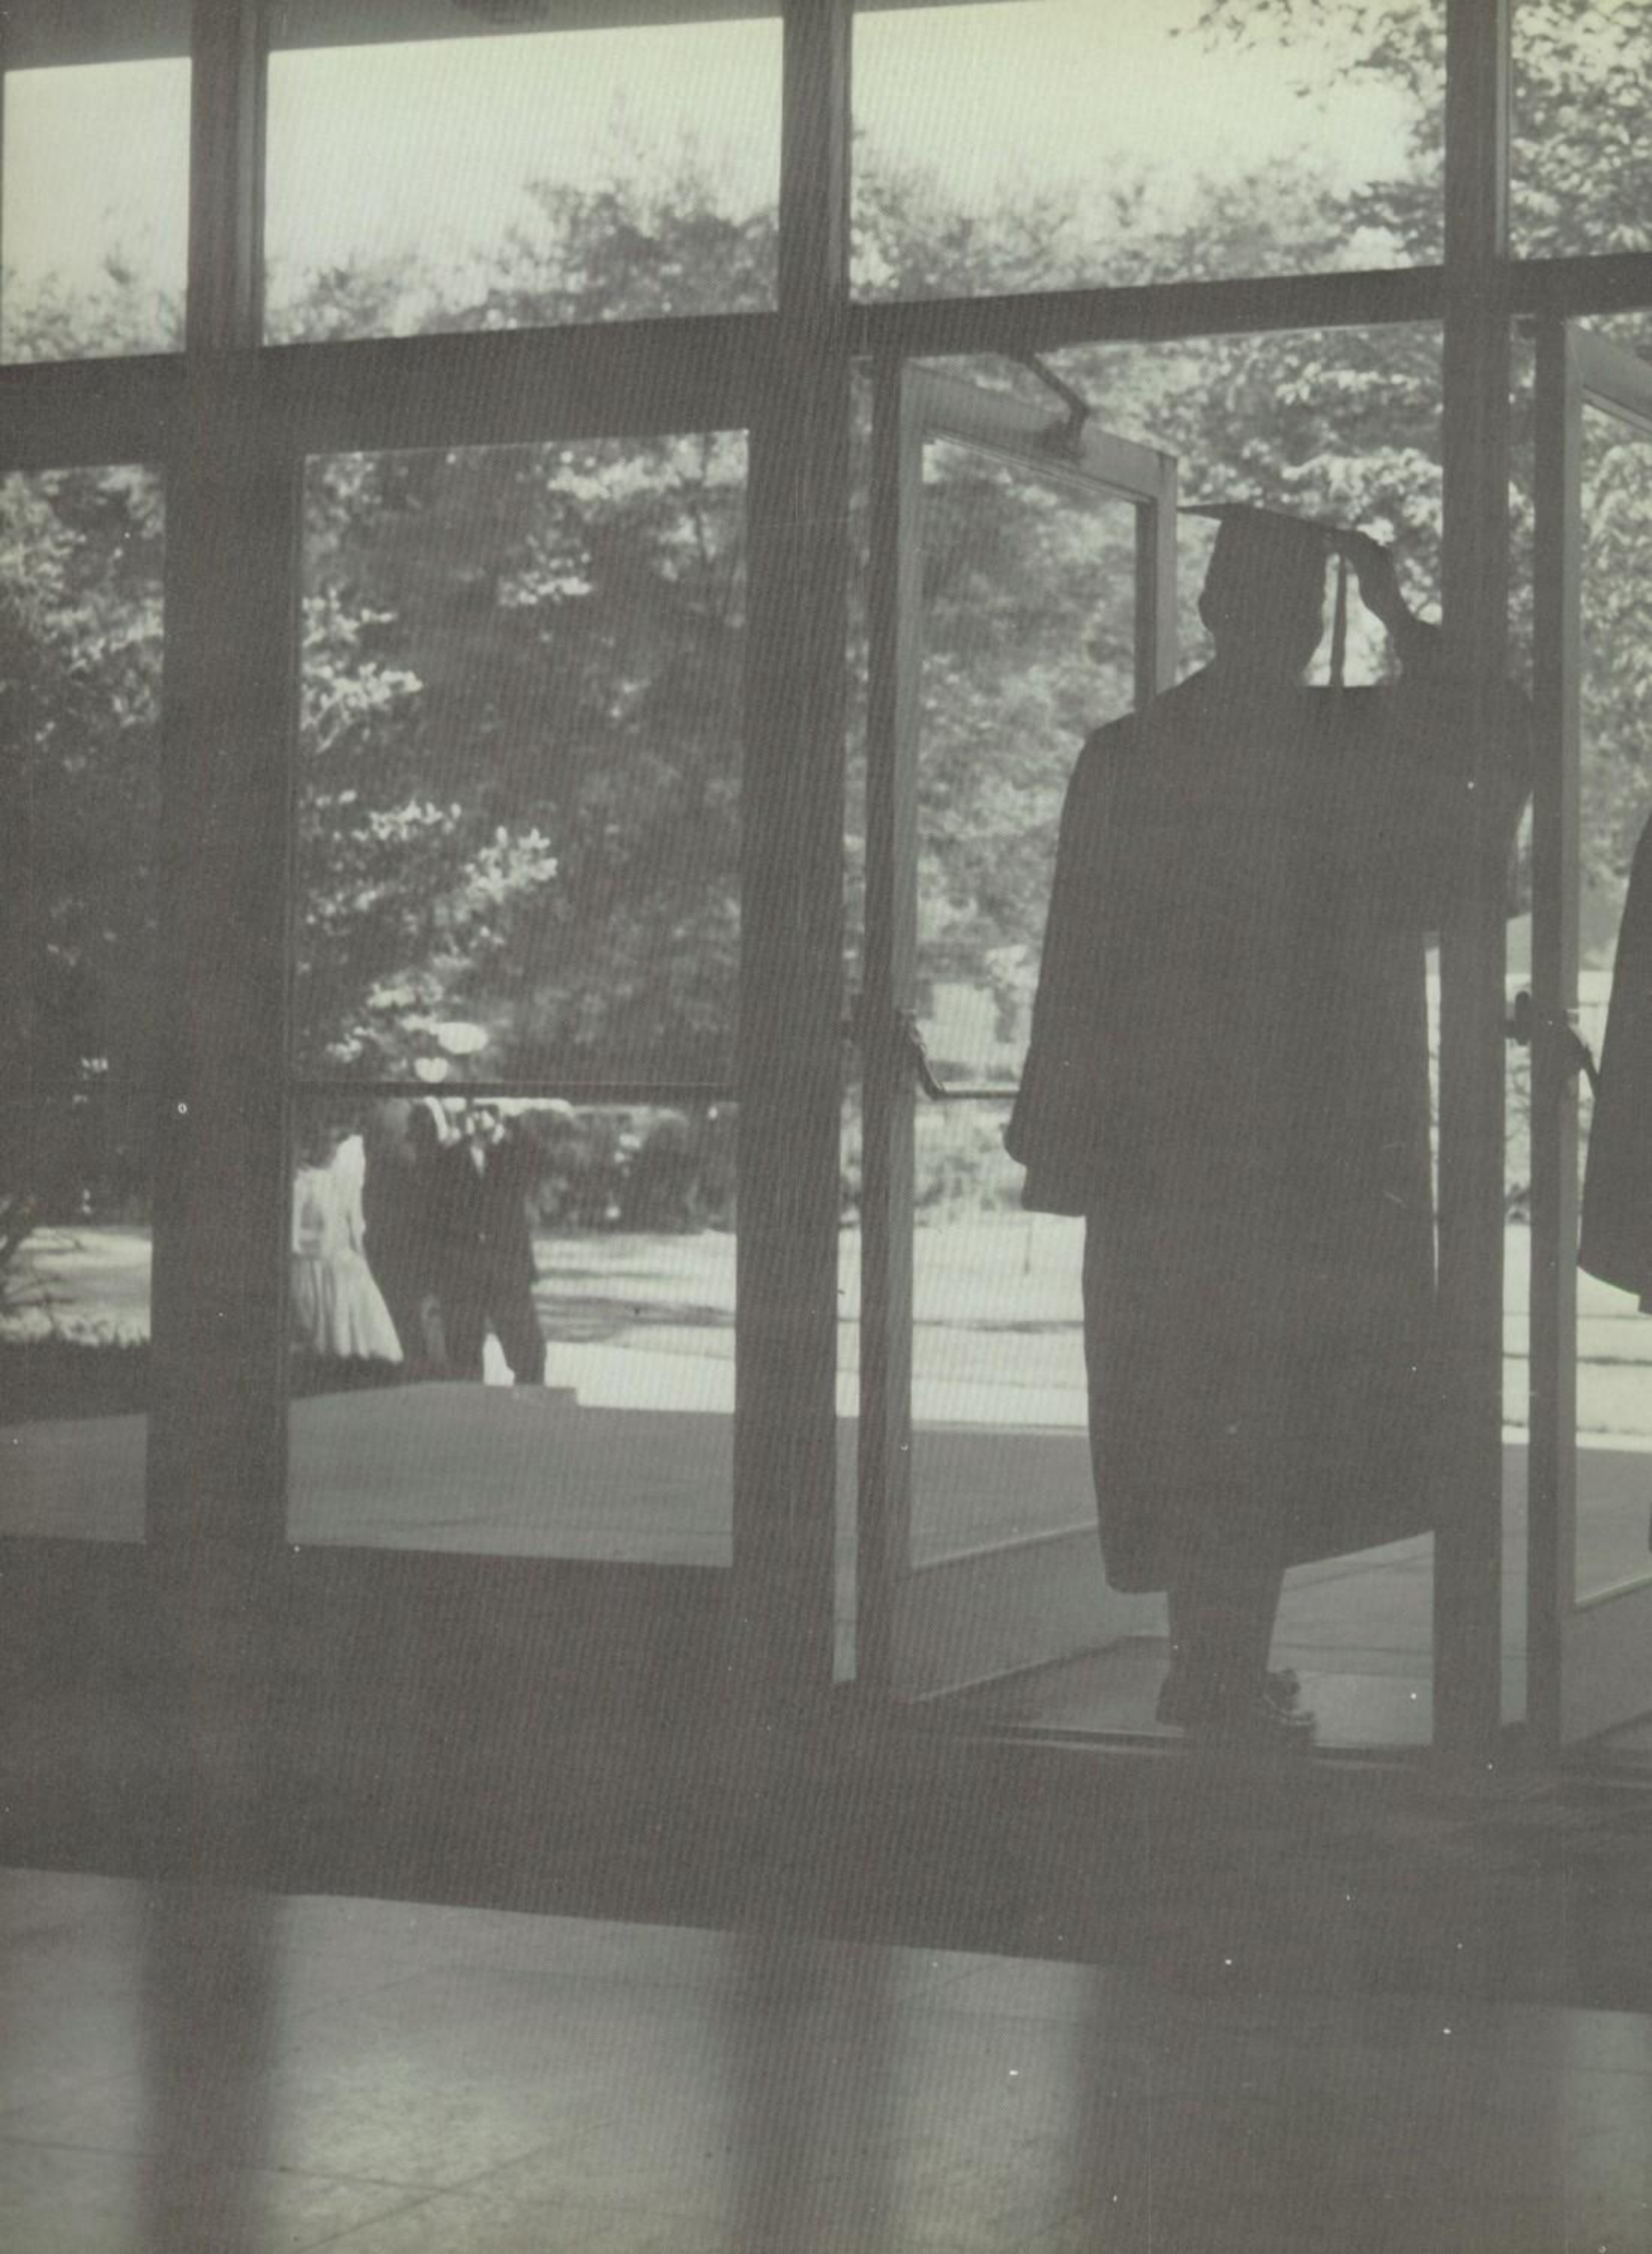
aspects as students ended their first year

In a freshman algebra class, students master problems by graphs and formulas.





Many fond memories linger behind the graduating class and the termination of their high school career. The halls of R-B hold the memories of the Class of '63 from their first exciting day in the fall of 1959 until their graduation day on June 12, 1963. In the space of four fleeting years, the bubbling teenagers who entered the freshman class have grown to sedate young men and women, ready to take their places in the adult world. The recognition of talents and abilities now shape future careers. The smiles and cheerful friendliness of the students as freshmen now promise the graduates success in college and the business world. The activities so earnestly sought after and participated in now hold for the graduating seniors the promise of future usefulness and preparation. R-B's main entrance has now become an exit for the 1963 graduates, who face the future with hope, faith, and ability, activity, and R-B-ity.

As editor-in-chief of the 1963 Rouser, I acknowledge the guidance of Root Photographers of Chicago; and our printers and publishers, the Norman King Company, Inc., of Park Ridge.

I want to especially thank the faculty, administration, students, athletic coaches, and yearbook staff for cooperating during many hours of inconvenience. The English department and Government-Sociology teachers of the Social Science department merit special thanks for assisting in the photographing of underclassmen, balloting of outstanding seniors, and preparation of activity lists.

Appreciation is shown for the original and artistic ideas of Art Editor Melinda Berg. Additional thanks to Copy Editor Linnea Phillip for her clear writing style and efficiency in producing yearbook copy. Sincere thanks to Senior Photography Editor Lynn Topinka and Photography Editor Janice Flowers for arranging every picture for the Rouser. Special thanks to Adviser Mr. William Mohrhusen for his patience, guidance, and endless ideas, without which there would be no yearbook.
